EXPERT HIGHLIGHT

UNLV has experts available to offer commentary on international, national, state, and local politics and related election issues. Visit unlv.edu/2016debate for a full list.

- Debate strategy: Communication studies professor Jacob Thompson, coach of UNLV's nationally ranked debate team, is an expert on use of the tactic during presidential campaigns.
- Economy: Stephen Miller is director of the UNLV Lee Business School's Center for Business and Economic Research.
- Criminal justice: Criminologist Bill Sousa has expertise in police policy and management, international policing, and community crime prevention. He is director of UNLV's Center for Crime and Justice Policy.

DID YOU KNOW?

- U.S. News & World Report ranked UNLV's Boyd School of Law fifth on a list of law schools students want to attend. The list ranks schools by yield – the percentage of admitted students who choose to enroll. Boyd — the state's only law school — had a 46.4 percent yield rate, behind just Yale, BYU, Harvard and Southern University.
- UNLV has a stronghold on the gaming world. The university this year launched the International Center for Gaming Regulation, a first-of-its-kind resource for independent education, research and training programs to aid gaming regulators and emerging jurisdictions around the world. Additionally, UNLV's Center for Gaming Innovation since its 2013 launch has worked with students on 25 provisional patent applications, three new companies, and nearly a dozen sold student patents.
- UNLV's dance team, the Rebel Girls, won the national title in Hip Hop at the 2016 Universal Dance Association College National Championship this month. This is the team's fourth national title, with wins in 2008, 2010, and 2013. Members of the team appeared on NBC's "Today Show" following the win.
